TORN PAPER SNOWFLAKES

winter craft for kids

WWW.TODDLERATPLAY.COM

Make a snowflake picture.

All you need is paper to tear, glue to stick and a pen to create a snowflake outline to follow.

You can use white paper on a black or blue background or blue paper on a white background

UK Holidays and our local community

This half term in Humanities, we are looking at the UK, and its places. Can you collect some pictures of places you have been in the UK on holiday to show and make a display at school. You could also take some snowy pictures of your local area to share and compare with friends. You could also draw a picture or make one of one of the flags of the UK countries

Messy play!

Collect some snow in a tray or other wide, deep container.

Use food colouring, non-toxic paint or anything you can find at home to create patterns, shapes and pictures. Take a photo to share with your friends when we return to school!

Musical instruments

In science, we are exploring sounds and the students can use junk from recycling at home to make a musical instrument that can either be shaken, strummed or banged. Decorate your instrument and bring it in to play some music with friends

Mindful colouring

Take some time working on feeling calm - do some colouring, (mindfulness colouring sheets in resource pack) if you can't print this. draw your own picture or ask an adult to draw you a picture to colour)

Take the opportunity to work on independence skills, prepare lunch together, make the beds, tidy, clean or do some cooking! Practice makes perfect!! 😊

Most importantly, take time to explore in your own unique way alongside your family and friends at home. Why not make a snow woman in honour of international women's day!! There is also a winter walk checklist in the resource pack if you happen to get out and about!
